BRANCHING ACTIVITIES FOR THE MAGIC OF MUSHROOMS

My Pet Can Find Mushrooms?

Read this article and watch the videos to discover that we aren't the only ones with the power to hunt for mushrooms. Uncover what it takes for these special pals to find mushrooms.

Mushroom Hunters

Vermicompost

Mushrooms are not the only decomposer out there. Worms can help break down organic material too! Learn how you can create your own vermicompost bin and what to feed them here:

Setting Up A Vermicompost Bin

Grow Your Own Mushrooms

Growing your own mushrooms is just like growing your own fruit and veggies! Try your hand at growing fungi with these different methods:

Growing Mushrooms

Mycelium Dig

Mycelium is the root-like structure of a fungus, it looks like cobwebs in the soil.

You can find mycelium just about everywhere in gardens and forests. All you need to do is dig!

Go On A Mushroom Hunt

Visit your local park or nature preserve for a chance to find mushrooms! Look near rotting trees, on the sides of living trees, or by fallen leaves.

Take pictures and create a photo album of your adventure. Or, make drawings of your discoveries, but DO NOT EAT!
